A DAY IN THE LIFE OF

Intimidated

Situated

Medicated

Liquidated

Saturated

Educated

Calculated

Incorporated

Agitated

An equal opportunity work day soliloquy

AN EVENING OF SPEED DATING

Enter into a huge gathering room
Each of us with an agenda
Awkward while hoping to appear sophisticated
Wondering if our attire is current or outdated
Whole truths may lead to unwanted conclusions
Too much voice, limited choice
Can sink a future relationship
Given a glimpse into someone's persona
Might deceive rather than relieve Switching people, in the blink of an eye, makes
Gathering information difficult for future hookups
Judging on intuition my comment would be
Tiring for the brain, ending with repetitive refrain

A FOUR LETTER WORD

Safe a four letter word

Does everyone want to play it safe?

As enclosed in the cocoon of life

Guarded by invisible security blankets

Decisions played for safety versus risks

Potential hidden mind devours lost chances

Recriminations overblown to excess

Lapse time extremely short for indulging

In self pity

Safe, taken care of, protected, snug, unhappy!!!

AS THE WHISTLE BLOWS

The loud shrill note, of the tiny plastic device is a signal to Pay attention, be alert, listen

When you're enjoying the day at the shore, and you hear that Distinct sound, it signals someone is in need of aid or Assistance
Coaches, teachers, instructors, all use this tiny but effective
Tool to get attention

When a person is described as a whistle blower, they have Information, that could be of vital importance
To industry or government, corporations

Don't ignore the tiny whistle

It's like a "S.O.S." for Batman

Pay attention just pucker up and blow

BEAUTIFUL SKY

Holiday fireworks light up the ebony
Sky, adding adornments to the heavens
Along with booming noises from bright rockets
Augment sound and music to the celebration
The chorus of stars, are sensitive to
An interruption of tranquility
Festivities offer fun to some
Those residing with a higher being
Do their best to accept
